Carmel Woman's Club to Launch Tenth Year of Activity on Oct. 7

ENTERING upon its tenth year of activity, the Carmel Woman's Club will hold its first general monthly meeting the afternoon of Monday, Oct. 7 at 2:30, at Pine Inn, where all general and section meetings, with the exception of those of the garden section, will be held. The program for the first session will be presented by Mrs. Carlo Sutro Morbio, diseuse. The November and December programs have also been arranged. Mrs. Mary Post Miller will give a travel talk the first Monday in November, and Elsie Anderson, soprano, will be presented in December. For the remainder of the season there will be a variety of programs on world affairs, book reviews, impersonations, dramatic readings and other interesting subjects.

One general meeting is held each month, from October to May inclusive, on first Mondays at 2:30. The book section will meet each first and third Wednesday at 10 o'clock; the garden section, the first and third Thursday morning at 10; current events section, second and fourth Wednesday mornings at 10; and the bridge section each second and fourth Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Three of the section chairmen are the same as last year: Mrs. E. H. Yocum heads the garden section, Mrs. I. N. Ford the book section and Mrs. Willis G. White, current events. Mrs. John Jordan has accepted the chairmanship of the bridge section

Officers of the club, elected by the board of directors chosen at the last general meeting of the spring, are: Mrs. Harry S. Nye, president; Mrs. Willis G. White, vice president; Mrs. Elizabeth Titus, recording secretary; Mrs. W. S. Frolli, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Clara L. Beller, treasurer. Committee chairman are: Mrs. James K. Lynch, program; Miss Agnes H. Ford, publicity; Mrs. E. R. Tutt, house; Mrs. W. E. Heathorne, hospitality; Mrs. J. B. McCarthy, revision. Mrs. Alfred Wolff is director at large.

A cordial invitation is extended to all women of Carmel to join the club, object of which is to bring about the solidarity of the women of Carmel, to foster a community spirit, and to promote the civic, cultural, artistic, and social ideals of the community. Guest cards for the opening meeting may be obtained from any member. Any woman may become a member by paying the initiation fee of $1, plus the annual dues of $4, to the treasurer, Mrs. Clara Beller, Box 564, Carmel.

New Job Press Is Installed at Pine Cone Office

The Pine Cone has installed this week a new job press, intermediate in size to the "battery" of two already in action. Just two years ago the job printing department was installed, with equipment which it was thought then would be sufficient for years to come. The volume of printing which the shop is consistently handling made it imperative to add a third press.

Respite Given Sign Violators

Sept. 15 was set by Street Commissioner Joseph A. Burge at the September council meeting, as the zero hour for signs illegally erected on or over city property. The zero hour passed, with city officials inclined to be more lenient in enforcement than at first seemed probable. A quick glance around this week showed the six or seven signs still in place.

Street Commissioner Burge expressed himself as in favor of giving owners of the signs a further opportunity to apply for permission to maintain the signs, before any action is contemplated to remove them forcibly. Police Chief Robert Norton says that he will send notices to owners of the signs well in advance of the council meeting of next Wednesday evening, giving formal notice of the illegality of the signs, and expecting that the matter will be further discussed at the council meeting.

Realtors, Builders Hear Talk on Loans

Carmel realtors and builders gathered at Pine Inn last evening to hear a talk by W. B. Stahl of the FHA on the provisions of the housing act government loans. Great activity in this field is expected immediately, according to Stahl, and local real estate people and contractors are expecting to encourage would-be home owners to take advantage of this opportunity for low-cost, long-term loans.

Rev. Chinn to Speak at Missionary Meeting

Rev. Austin B. Chinn will be the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of Carmel Missionary Society, to be held Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 24, at 2:30, at All Saints parish house. He will give an account of the mission work of the Episcopal church in South America, especially that centering at Rio Gran do Sul, Brazil. At the close of the meeting a farewell tea will be given to Mrs. Rose de Yoe, who is to leave soon to make her home in the Hawaiian Islands.

Mrs. De Yoe was one of the earliest Carmel pioneers, and has hosts of friends who will regret her departure. All her peninsula friends are specially invited to attend the farewell tea, at which she has consented to speak informally on reminiscences of the early days in the village.

Diantha C. Miller of San Jose has purchased a lot on the Mesa in Hatton Fields and expects to build a home soon.

Carmel Man, New WPA Director, Urges Ideas Submitted for Work

PROJECTS in sufficient number to take care of the unemployed of Monterey county are not available, and through The Pine Cone Major William H. Landers of Carmel, newly-appointed director of the Works Progress Administration of Monterey and San Benito counties, has issued an urgent call to proper sponsoring bodies to come forward with ideas. Only 20 per cent of the cost must be supplied by school districts, city councils or supervisors who sponsor projects. As particularly applicable to the peninsula, he mentioned art and history projects.

Major Landers is already established in his Salinas WPA office, taking over from SERA. WPA will function along lines more or less similar to those of SERA, he announces. The social service aspect of relief is for the present in charge of the district personnel working out of Santa Barbara.

The new director has had no opportunity as yet for a check of the number of unemployed; in May the number stood at 1400.

Major Landers has spent all his adult life as an engineer, mining, civil and chemical, after graduating from Columbia University and attending University of California. He saw war service in the engineering division, went in a captain and came out a major. Since 1930 he has lived on the Monterey peninsula and for the past two years in Carmel.

Student Body at Sunset School In Constitution Day Observance

OBSERVING Constitution Day and preparing for the reorganization of the student body, the first general assembly was held at Sunset school Tuesday morning. Homer Levinson presided, calling for reports of the nominating committee, consisting of student body officers and representatives of the student council, and additional nominations from the floor.

For president were nominated Boice Richardson, Milancy Smith, Max Hagemeyer, Tom Brown and George Crossman; for vice president, Larry McLaren, Babette De Moe and Billy Frolli; for secretary, Dorothy Smith, Ann Millis, Colden Whitman and Clara Jeanette Roxbury; for business manager, John Tait, Howard Levinson and Jerry Neikirk.

After the business meeting, 12 members of the eighth grade presented the Constitution Day program, with Boice Richardson as chairman. Larry McLaren, Jane Ellen Parker and Gordon Ewig sketched briefly the events leading up to the writing of the Constitution; Colonial dissatisfaction with the British government, active resentment of taxation without representation, the Revolutionary War and the chaos which followed, when the colonies, unwilling to be ruled by others, seemed at first unable to rule themselves.

Thumb-nail sketches were given of the fathers of the Constitution, Babette De Moe discussing George Washington; Dorothy Smith, Benpamin Franklin; Jacqueline Hodges, James Madison; Robert Jackson, Alexander Hamilton; Carol Bailey, Gouverneur Morris; and Natalie Hatton, Thomas Jefferson. Conflicts and difficulties attendant upon drawing up the document were described by Dorothy Haasis, and Clair Jeannette Roxbury summarized and concluded the discussion.

Singing of The Star-Spangled Banner by the assembly concluded the meeting.

Mayor Thoburn and Family on Ramble

Mayor and Mrs. James Thoburn will leave at the end of this week on a vacation trip of several weeks which will take them first to Long Beach then on a rambling trip through Southern California. They are setting no definite time to return and the mayor proposes to relax and forget the cares of office and of an exceptionally busy summer in the real estate business. Last week-end the Thoburns and their two boys spent on their ranch in Sonoma county. P. A. and Sally McCreery will hold down the fort at the real estate office while they are away and Councilman John Catlin will preside at next week's council meeting.

Study Group Plans Outlined By League

Opportunity for better acquaintance and a delightful social occasion was enjoyed by the League of Women Voters, which assembled for a tea at the Carmel Valley home of Mrs. Ora Haseltine Wednesday afternoon. Practically the entire membership attended. Plans for the various study groups which will begin their activities were explained after Mrs. Carl Voss, the president, gave a brief outline of the work of the organization nationally. Miss Helen Davis spoke for her government and economic welfare group; Mrs. Russell Scott outlined plans for the study of government and international relations, and Mrs. Voss discussed the plans for the government and its operation section, of which Mrs. Howard Walters is the new chairman.

COMMUNITY ORCHESTRA AND CHORUS REHEARSALS

Rehearsal sessions of both the community orchestra and chorus will be held early next week. Conductor Ernst Bacon will be here from San Francisco to work with the orchestra Sunday night and with the chorus the following night, both groups meeting at Denny-Watrous Gallery. The chorus had a large turn-out at the last session two weeks ago. Recruits to both orchestra and chorus are always welcome.

Gala Event at Del Monte Hotel Tomorrow Night as Bal Masque Opens

THE Carmel artists and writers are are all ready to go into their dance!

Tomorrow night the Carmel Art Association's second annual Bal Masque will get underway at Del Monte and will pass into delirious history at dawn on Sunday.

All during last week the artists and writers were busy transforming the huge dining room of the hotel into an artistic setting for a Bohemian revel the like of which the Pacific coast has never seen before.

It will be a colorful and joyous scene with 500 invited couples in fancy dress swaying to the music of the dance, laughing and joking at the tables and otherwise entering into the sprit of goodfellowship which always marks an art ball.

The importance of exchanging invitations for tickets without delay was stressed by Armin Hansen, president of the Carmel Art Association.

The proceedings will get off to an exalted start at 7:30 o'clock with a coast to coast broadcast over the nation-wide network of the Columbia Don Lee Broadcasting system. The scene will be vividly described by Harrison Holliway, KFRC station manager, and visiting movie stars and other celebrities will contribute to the program.

Then at 10:30 o'clock, there will be another broadcast for Pacific Coast listeners. The next big event will be the unmasking at midnight which will be followed by a stage show that will be "bolder than bold."

There will also be many other surprises and favors for those who are lucky enough to be included on the guest list of the Carmel artists and writers at their second annual Bal Masque tomorrow night.

These will include Mr. and Mrs. S. F. B. Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Winslow, Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose J. Byrne, Mrs. Frances Elkins, Mr. Frederick Peabody and Byington Ford; Misses Jehanne and Patricia Havens-Monteagle, Miss Barbara Tobin, Miss Mary Hayne, Miss Yvone Thieriot, Richard Tobin, Burleigh Pattee, and Bob Smith;

Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. LeFeaver and Senator and Mrs. E. H. Tickle;

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carey, Miss Gladis Cooper, Francis Mygatt, Miss Langstoth, Bill Swain, George Moncure and James Rich; Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Weber and Miss Betty Weber; Messrs. Jack and George Steel and Charles Rowe and Miss Steineman, of Salinas.

Auxiliary Lucky on Friday 13th

Friday the 13th was a lucky day for the newly-formed Woman's auxiliary to Carmel Legion Post, for on that day were received 13 letters, with checks enclosed, from friends who are ineligible for membership, but nevertheless wish to help the organization. These letters were read at the first autumn meeting of the auxiliary, held Friday evening at Manzanita-Legion hall.

Mrs. Alma Woolridge, district president, of San Jose, was the speaker who told the new auxiliary of the various other district units and their activities, indicated how the Carmel organization can make its program fit in with the others. The plan is to have a business session every other month, alternating with program for which good speakers will be secured. The meeting of Oct. 10 will be addressed by Police Chief Quinn of San Francisco and will be followed by a social hour.

DUVALL SERVICE STATION

Charles A. Duvall, formerly of the Carmel Poultry Market, has taken over the management of the Shell Service station in the Highlands on the Carmel-San Simeon highway and has announced solicitation of business from his local friends.

DORA HAGEMEYER DETAILS FURTHER TRAVELS ON NEW ZEALAND TRIP

By DORA HAGEMEYER

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the accompanying article, to be published in two installments, the interesting story of the trip of the Comstock-Hagemeyer family to far-away New Zealand is continued. Several weeks ago The Pine Cone carried the account of the trip out; the following tells of the arrival, and what the Carmel visitors found in the distant land.

WELL—to go on wth the story . . . the day after we left Fiji we noticed the weather becoming gradually colder. We were steaming almost due south and heading for mid-winter. Two days out of Auckland we ran into rough weather. The second day we had our first storm and most of our fellow-passengers disappeard into their cabins. Several of the bravest stayed on deck and strode annoyingly up and down before the envious eyes of green-looking travelers wrapped in rugs.

As we neared New Zealand the storm abated and when we sailed into Waitemata harbor, it was a clear winter morning. I woke up very early and looked out of the porthole at the stars. Then I dressed and went on deck to see the sunrise. All the freshness and long-forgotten fragrance of childhood days came back to me. I am sure it was not imagination; there was a quality about that morning which was distinctly New Zealand—whether it was in the atmosphere or in the winter coldness, or in the land and sea I do not know. I only know that it was strangely familiar.

As we neared the dock we eagerly searched the faces of the waiting people to find some we recognized, but the ship had docked and the gangway was down before I recognized my brother and sister. They had been little children when I saw them last and now they were grown up. Twenty years makes a great deal of difference in a five-year-old!

The first thing we noticed of course was the difference in speech. The beautiful English diction that is heard all over New Zealand is always surprising to an American. Quiet voices, well-chosen words, perfect accents, and clean-cut word-endings mark New Zealanders with unmistakable distinction. Australian diction is another story.

While we were in Auckland we lived in a little farm-house which the family had rented for us. It was a typical New Zealand "small-holding"—several acres of very fertile land—an orchard, a cow, a garden, a wood-shed and a wash-house. Every New Zealand house has its wash-house—a little shed with wooden laundry tubs and a "copper"—a great round bronze bowl with a fire under it, for boiling clothes.

All around the paddocks the wattles were in bloom and along the creeks were the beautiful tree-ferns for which New Zealand is famous; some of the fronds were more than 12 feet long, the whole tree forming a lacy bower of greenness. The country is a paradise of ferns; "the bush" contains more than 500 varieties. The kidney-fern is particularly interesting. It has a flat kidney-shaped frond standing vertically on its stem, showing the light through its one blade and bearing its spores around the edge. It is said to be found in its native state only in New Zealand. No one who has not seen it can imagine the surprising appearance of a glade of these strange little ferns, standing up stiffly in their various tones of "translucent" green!

July was the wettest winter month in 60 years, so the people told us—and it certainly was wet! Day and night the rain poured down on the tin roof of our house (almost all the houses have red tin roofs)—as if it would beat holes in it. So we bought rubbers and umbrellas and decided to forget the rain and have a good time in spite of it—and we did.

From our kitchen window we looked across an apple orchard and one morning we were surprised to see two brilliantly-colored paraqueets pecking at an old apple. We thought they had escaped from a cage until we were told that they were the "rosellas"—migratory birds from Australia—nowhere could one see a more brilliant bird. The head is crimson, the breast pale blue, the wings yellow-green, the back deep green, the wing-tips black and white and the tail blue. We watched them every morning as we were eating breakfast.

Breakfast was our one American meal. After a long search in Auckland we found some real coffee beans and had them ground. New Zealand coffee is mostly chicory and is always made with hot milk. It is a dreadful drink. We borrowed a percolator from a member of the family who had brought one from California years ago. Very soon our coffee—with the rich New Zealand cream, became quite famous and several men who were building a house opposite would stop in at lunch-time for a cup of it. Coffee is more expensive in New Zealand and for the average family quite beyond their means. Tea, however, is drunk every two hours or so. Tea before you get up—tea for breakfast, morning tea at 10:30, tea for lunch, afternoon tea—tea at supper-time and tea before you go to bed—tea all the time! You could not visit anyone at any time of the day without being offered tea. Very soon we were so soaked in tea that we had to start refusing it. But this puts such a damper on the spirits of a hostess that we finally decided to keep it up and face the consequences.

Apart from visiting all their aunts and uncles, the greatest source of entertainment for the boys during the long rainy days and evenings was a chess set which we bought in Auckland. David taught several of them to play and almost any evening, through the cigarette smoke in the farm kitchen—drawn up close to the "range" for warmth, you could see them with their heads bent low and brows knitted over some problem involving kings and queens.

Most New Zealand houses are 60 years behind the times. There are few conveniences, little or no heating; there are no window-screens, but the flies are kept out of the milk-jug with little squares of white net, weighted with blue beads. Only the milk seemed privileged to have this protection—and occasionally the cakes on an afternoon tea tray, which would be covered with a piece of embroidered muslin.

The back door is used more than the front door; in fact in most simple homes, the front door is only used on special occasions—for very formal calls, when the parlor also comes into infrequent usage. These parlors with their player pianos, plush seated chairs, knickknacks, stuffed birds and photos of deceased relatives are the pride of the housekeeper and the misery of everyone else. Who could feel comfortable in a parlor?

There are innumerable pictures of football teams and relatives in plush frames and the Prince of Wales and the royal family adorning the walls. But the people are hospitality itself. They cannot do enough for you. They go out of their way to show you things and to see that you have a good time. They ask innumerable questions about America, most of their ideas of this country being highly colored by the moving pictures.

In a land where there is so little entertainment, movies and football games are taken very seriously. People do not go to the pictures lightly, as we do, to fill in time, but they plan a week ahead and then discuss them as if they had been to an opera. They imagine America to be one big Hollywood, and it is this perhaps that makes them so apologetic in their attitude towards Americans. They seem to think that our houses are all like the typical stage-set and our lives likewise glorified and they feel the comparison sharply. They do not seem to realize that in the simplicity of their lives, the unhurried pace with which they live, their closeness to the earth and their general "unspoiled-ness" they have something which we might well enjoy.

PACIFIC GROVE

BECAUSE of her forthcoming departure for college, Miss Barbara Kenyon was feted in Pacific Grove with a farewell party given by Miss Bobette Robinson last week.

The games of "murder" and "electricity" were much enjoyed by the guests which included the Misses Barbara Kenyon, Betty Rose Lewis, Jean Rogers, Elsie Bisnett, Jean Perkins, Shirley Moffett, Marjorie Banta, and the hostess, Bobette Robinson; and Messrs. James Kenyon, Phillip Kenyon, Fred Meagher, John Shepherd, Gordon Stewart, Kenneth Currier, Harry Diffenbaugh and Charles Petty.

Members of the T. L. W. were hostesses at a "shin-dig" given in the home of Jean Randol on Lighthouse avenue Saturday night. Dancing, and commenting on the victory of the Pacific Grove football squad were the main diversions. The members, Madeline Jacobsen, Betty Ann Clemmens, Betty Durnford, Mildred Cashin, Olivia Davis Ruth Down, Doris Cook, Marian Walton, Eloise Diffenbaugh, Jean Randol were hostesses to the following guests: Harriet Holman, Barbara Ansell, Helen Randol, Thelma Baxter, La Verne Schmadeke, Frances Hodges, Bill Tumbleson, Bob King, Vernon Baxter, Arthur Barter, Charles Lewis, Bill McLean, Bill Crowley, Ernest Watson, Kenny Ward, Evans Lee, Royce Clemmens, Bill Van Ess, Gerry Conrow and Thomas Dempsey.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Safford were hosts to the Dinner and Bridge Club at a barbecue Saturday night, prepared by "Chef" Robert Mishler. After the tantalizing steaks were safely stowed away, the following adjourned to the house and played bridge: Mr. and Mrs. Loren Smith, Mr. and Mrs. V. O. McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mishler, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Gamble, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Safford. Mrs. Loren Smith and Walter Cook won first prizes and V. O. McMillan received consolation.

In a surprise victory, the Breakers of Pacific Grove High football squad vanquished their brawny opponents from Santa Cruz by a score of 26 to 0, Saturday afternoon on the Grove turf. The Grove starting lineup was Cosmey and McGill, ends; Lemos and Williams, tackles; Laughran and Watson (captain) guards; Willey, center; Lewis, quarterback; Coleman and Baxter, halfbacks, and Dempsey, fullback. Lewis scored three touchdowns, one after an 85-yard run. McGill tore over the line for the fourth marker.

Fear of becoming spinsters or bachelors must be prevalent in the younger set of Pacific Grove because the last month has been filled with the pleasure of rice throwing, receptions, and weddings by the score. The latest to take the "leap" are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Burton (Helen Lewis), Mr. and Mrs. Noble Barter (Mary Raymond), Mr. and Mrs. Paul Raymond, (Frances Maas), Mr. and Mrs. William Ford, (Betty Briggs). Earlier marriages were those of Mr. and Mrs. William Davison (Clair Moran), and Mr. and Mrs. John Down (Iris Parker).

Miss Eleanor Beaumont left for her home in San Francisco Tuesday after having been the house guest of Mrs. Noble Barter and attendant at Mrs. Barter's wedding and later the house guest of Miss Frances Hodges. Miss Beaumont is well known in the Grove, having attended high school here for several years.

Last week-end was the occasion of much celebration by members of the John D. Orchard family. Saturday marked the anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Orchard, Sr.'s wedding 25 years ago. And Sunday was the first wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Orchard, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Herzog, the sister of Mrs. Orchard Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burris, niece and nephew of Mrs. Orchard, Sr., and their daughter, Gail Lorraine of San Francisco, visited the Orchards to help in the feteing. A lovely dinner Sunday, attended by the visitors from San Francisco and the Misses Margaret, Esther, and Dorothy Orchard, terminated the festivities.

Taking advantage of the "summer" weather, members of the Berean class of the Mayflower Congregational church school were participants in a joyous beach party, Tuesday night. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Mack, Dr. and Mrs. Spencer Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wingard, Mrs. and Mrs. Loren Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Duerr, Mr. and Mrs. Tannehill, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Chase Proper, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Bardin.

Miss Kenyon left Wednesday for San Jose State College where she will begin her higher education as a freshman.

Mrs. Germain Culp has as her house guest for a few days, Miss Frances Abby. The two are staying at Mrs. Culp's Carmel Valley ranch.

Forest Hill School Opens for Fall Term

With the return of Mrs. Fenton Grigsby, the director, from her vacation in Portland, Forest Hill school has reopened for the autumn season. Mrs. Willis G. White is the teacher for upper grade work and a new resident teacher is Miss Florence Hallam of Portland, who is a graduate of University of Oregon, has had four years' teaching experience in the Portland schools, and is an art pupil of Sidney Bell. She has had special training in art work with children, and in order to become acquainted with other young artists and their work, has joined Clay Otto's life class.

European Passion Play In English To Be Presented Here Next Week

THE Business and Professional Women's Club of Salinas is bringing to Carmel an outstanding civic event in the great European Passion Play in English, to be staged at Sunset School auditorium, for three evenings, Sept. 25, 26 and 27 at 8:00 p. m. daily. For this production there are over ten tons of scenery and 1000 costumes.

Presented in the United States States by the Great European Passion Players, spoken on the stage entirely in English, founded in Freiburg, Germany, in the year 999, the presentation of this divine spectacle, which has been shown to millions of Americans since 1928, is the "Oldest Passion Play" known in the world. By now, the great European Passion Play in English has become an entirely American organization and undertaking.

For centuries people have journeyed from the four corners of the globe to the Old World, that they might live in the sacred atmosphere of this great and divine spectacle—that they might witness this great living message, perpetuated in the memory of men through all eternity, according to the sponsors.

In a recent edict, Hitler has prohibited not only the enacting of the role of the "Christus" in the famous Passion Play of Oberammergau, but also the staging of the "Crucifixion," and Germany has been robbed of its 300-year-old presentation of the Passion Play.

Presented by a professional cast and augmented by a chorus and orchestra of more than 300, the Passion Play at Carmel's Sunset School auditorium will mark one of the most colossal and gorgeous spectacles seen here, the living presentation of the Master's teachings, intended to visualize to men and women the real meaning of Jesus Christ.

The Passion Play presentation has received in Salinas the endorsements of Mayor V. J. Barlogio, the Chamber of Commerce, ministers, schools, Parent-Teacher Association and many civic and fraternal organizations.

"The Film Till Now" Reviewed

By ALAN CAMPBELL

"THE FILM TILL NOW," by PAUL ROTHA
published by
JONATHAN CAPE & HARRISON SMITH.

ACCORDING to Paul Rotha, the cinema is "the greatest of all mediums available to the artist today." His entertaining survey of the cinema, "The Film Till Now" opens with a thought-provoking passage: "The visual film was thought necessary to accompany the sound recorded, (Edison in 1887 supplementing the phonograph with visual images) while 50 years later, sound is deemed necessary to accompany the visual film. About the "talkies" Rotha feels: "As a mechanical invention the dialogue film is doubtless marvelous . . . nevertheless they are simply reductions to absurdity of the attempt to join two separate arts, which, by their essential nature, defy synchronization."

The value of Mr. Rotha's book, (which carries cinemas only up to the advent of the talkie in 1930) is unique as he has made an intensive study of the "non-commercial" films—many of which unfortunately never obtained more than private showings. One wonders if the following would be available at the present time: "Dona Juana"—"Violinist of Florence" and "Nju"—all produced in Germany by the Elizabeth Bergner Poetic Film Company—with Miss Bergner supported by such sterling artists as Emil Jannings and Conrad Veidt. . . Henry King's production of "Tolable David" starring Richard Barthelmess — incidentally Rotha ranks this as the finest American film.—The French film "La Passion de Jeanne d'Arc" starring Falconetti.—The Soviet "Heir to Jenghiz Khan" and the Swedish "Atonement of Gosta Berling," featuring Lars Hanson and Greta Garbo.

Rotha feels that the Hollywood importation of European talent has always been disastrous. He has a few gracious words to say of Chaplin, Pickford - Fairbanks and Gloria Swanson — praising particularly Chaplin's independent productions—again one wonders what was the result of Gloria Swanson's work under Eric Von Stroheim in the sensational "Queen Kelly?" For some reason, it was never released.

This book makes clear the potentalities of the cinema — most of which, oddly enough, reached their highest peak several years ago. It would be interesting if Carmel's newly organized "Filmarte" could manage to frequently have a "revival" of important silent films—there are at least 50 titles mentioned in "The Films Till Now" which should find appreciative audiences in Carmel.

Brocklebank Play Under Rehearsal

Rehearsals are progressing rapidly on Katherine Brocklebank's new play, "Modern Daze" which will be given its premiere at The Playhouse (Filmarte Theatre) on next Friday and Saturday nights, Sept. 27 and 28.

"Modern Daze," a rapid-fire sparkling comedy, is a satire on the ultra-modern, bewildering life of today. The scene is laid in New York City, where all the nights are bright lights, and all the days are dark.

Katherine Brocklebank — Mrs. Martin Jonas Peterson, in private life,—has authored several plays that were produced successfully in San Francisco, Pasadena and Los Angeles. Those most noteworthy were "Love Apples," and "Dignity Be Damned," both comedies, and "Fog" a tragedy in one act. "Fog" will appear in this year's anthology.

Mrs. Pat Hudgins and Mrs. Peterson are responsible for the production of "Modern Daze," Franklin Dixon directing.

Farewell Recital By Lucile Roberts

A capacity attendance of her friends and members of the sponsoring Musical Art Club members marked the recital given by Miss Lucile Roberts the evening of Sept. 10 in the lounge at Del Monte. This was a farewell affair, on the eve of her departure for San Jose where she will attend Teachers' College and continue voice study in San Francisco. The young singer was in excellent voice and the program was much enjoyed. Edward C. Hopkins, her instructor for the past two years, accompanied her and played a piano solo group.

REPORT CARDS TO GIVE AN ACCURATE PICTURE

At a meeting of the faculty of Sunset school held Tuesday noon, general discussion of report cards was held, with a view to making them fulfill still further their function of presenting to parents an accurate picture of pupils' attitudes and aptitudes. The feeling was expressed that more important to parents than comparative standing, grades in subject matter, is a report of the amount of effort put forth by the students.

KERNELS FROM THE PINE CONE

Leaving Sunday for Philadelphia, Dr. Helen A. Field will join the faculty at the University of Pennsylvania as assistant professor of education. She is the only woman in the department of education, and one of the first women ever to be a regular faculty member. For the past 11 years she has been a member of the faculty at the summer session. University of Pennsylvania is one of the country's oldest institutions of higher education, was founded by Benjamin Franklin and is not to be confused with the state university at Penn State.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman T. Reynolds and their daughter, Betty, have returned to their home on San Antonio after a summer's sojourn at their old home in Greenwich, Conn.

Mrs. Edwin M. Einstein and her son, Lewis, have left after several weeks' vacation in Carmel, Mrs. Einstein returning to her home in Fresno and Lewis entering Montezuma school, near Los Gatos.

The Austin James family has returned to Pasadena after spending the summer here. They will return for the Christmas holidays as is their usual custom.

Week-end guests of Mrs. M. C. Chapin on Carmelo street were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Needham of San Francisco. Mrs. Needham is a granddaughter of the Mary Graves who was one of the survivors of the Donner party, and in Mrs. Needham's possession are $2.50 in silver money which her grandmother buried on the site of the cabin built while the 49ers waited for rescue. Mr. Needham, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, is soon to be retired from the postal service in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Covington have returned to Bowling Green, Ky., after their annual summer vacation in their Carmel home. Mrs. Covington exhibited as a member of the Carmel Art Association in one of the summer shows at the gallery on Dolores.

After spending a year in Carmel, Mrs. Ethel Romig Fuller, gifted poet of the northwest, has returned to her home in Portland, Ore. She came here last year with her son Tom, who was in frail health, and returns north with the lad fully restored and robust.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Seymour Thomas have arrived at La Playa hotel for a stay of one month. Their home is at La Crescenta, where Mrs. Seymour has her studio as a portrait painter. They have been coming here nearly every year since 1918.

Mrs. Rose De Yoe, long a resident of Carmel, is to leave Sept. 27 to make her home in Honolulu, joining her sisters, Mrs. Lillie B. Hanson and Mrs. Kate C. Wood, also former Carmelites.

Mrs. Dudley C. Carter and her daughter Mavis have arrived from British Columbia, joining Mr. Carter, the sculptor engaged in the heroic wood carving based on an Indian legend, in the Forest theater grounds.

After spending six weeks at his home on San Carlos, F. C. Horn has returned to San Francisco. He has been a frequent visitor to the Carmel region for the past 40 years, and a part-time resident for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Brand and their family have returned to Sierra Oaks, near Sacramento, after a fortnight in Carmel.

Mrs. Edward Benson and her daughters, Nancy and Martha, have returned to their home in Bakersfield after their annual month's vacation here.

Spending several weeks at Pine Inn are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sellers of Pasadena, who were pioneers in the work of founding the Pasadena Playhouse and are active among the musical groups of the southern city.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lamberton of Honolulu, their son Ian, who is a Stanford student, their son Alister and young daughter were guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Cockburn. The Lambertons are en route to their home in the Islands after a summer trip to Scotland.

Mrs. Howard Waterman and her daughter have taken the cottage Trees in Eighty Acres for the winter. They have been regular winter residents of Carmel for a number of years.

Adult Education Classes Opened at Sunset With Excellent Attendance

SEVERAL dozen men and women took advantage of the opening of adult education classes which held their first sessions this week at Sunset school. Additional enrollments to all of them are expected as word of their interest and value percolates through the community. Four of the classes opened Monday evening; the ever-popular pottery and woodwork class conducted by Ernest Calley in the industrial arts shop; the Spanish class of which Mrs. Beulah Terry is instructor, in the sixth grade room; English and citizenship taught by Miss Adelaide Stites in the seventh grade room, and Fred Bechdolt's current events and news session in the eighth grade room.

The latter group, which it is hoped will develop into an active community forum, was made up of individuals who appeared well-informed and aware of the major problems of the day. In a general discussion of possible topics, the Ethiopia-Italy situation, Huey Long as a political prenomenon, unemployment and relief, recent national and California legislation, particularly the new social legislation, new political and economic ideas and theories were mentioned as a few broad subjects which it would be interesting to pursue.

For the present, two or more class members will be assigned definite topics under a general heading which which all will be expected to discuss. Mr. Bechdolt disclaimed all intention of "lecturing" to the group, urged active participation by the entire membership. As a fairly easy subject which is occupying the limelight and will give good initial experience in research and discussion, the topic for next Monday evening at 7:30 will be Italy, Ethiopia and the League of Nations. Three class members are to bring in informative reports, after which discussion will be general.

Seventeen applicants have signed up for Charlotte Morgan's beginner's art class, the meeting time of which has not yet been announced.

A class in dress design and styling 2:30 to 4:30 in the lunchroom with meets each Thursday afternoon from Esther Englesby as instructor.

Clay Otto's life class, which has been an active and valuable organization for several years is meeting this year at the Monterey high school, the music room, Mondays and Thursdays from 7:30 to 9:30.

Douglas Plan to Be Lecture Topic

"A Criticism of Social Credit" is the title given by Charles Frederick Collin, English painter residing for an indefinite period in Carmel Highlands, to the talk which he will present at next Thursday evening's meeting of the Social Credit group, at Sunset school. Approaching the subject as one unwilling to believe, but persuaded despite his first doubts, Mr. Collin will analyze the Douglas plan from the standpoint of his own original questionings.

The group resumed its meetings for the fall season last evening, hearing at the initial session a discussion by Dora Hagemeyer of the Social Credit situation in New Zealand, where interest in the subject is particularly vital.

FLYNN ASSUMES DUTY

J. P. Flynn has assumed the duties of assistant scout executive, it was announced today by Dr. H. G. Watters, president of the Monterey Bay Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, covering the counties of San Benito, Santa Cruz, and Monterey. He will take over his new work at once, under the supervision of Scout Executive Alfred Young.

HOLLYWOOD DIRECTOR VISITS FAMILY HERE

Rowland V. Lee, director of Hollywood, spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents, Mrs. C. W. Lee of Carmel Woods. Mr. Lee started story preparation Monday on "Ivanhoe," his next big production for R. K. O. It will be a magnificent costume picture with a strong cast. Last week he completed the cutting of "The Three Musketeers" and it is scheduled for fall release. His brother, Robert N. Lee, is already at work on the scenario for "Ivanhoe."

Red Cross Only Relief Unit Here

"Red Cross work is emergency relief. It extends over the period of emergency but never becomes permanent," said Mrs. Karl Rendtorff, chairman of Carmel Chapter American Red Cross this week. "Most of our relief goes to so-called unemployables, people who are either too old or too ill to work, or who for some reason are not eligible for help from the state, county or federal relief." The local chapter has made an enviable record during the past year through the extending of proper medical service to those in need as well as collecting and supplying clothing, shoes and other necessary articles for those on temporary relief.

Doctors, dentists and oculists are co-operating generously.

Miss Leslie King, case worker, is in charge of headquarters in the old post office building on Dolores street.

"Carmel Red Cross is the only local relief organization and is being supported through the generosity of our citizens," said Mrs. Rendtorff.

Good Prospects for Grid Season

By MONTE CARMELO

Prospects are bright for the tri-county amateur football league that has been organized this season. There will be regular teams playing a 13-week schedule. Local people will have a chance to see a good brand of ball without journeying to the bay region or elsewhere. Most of the games will be played at night at the Monterey ball park, where excellent lighting facilities are to be had.

There will be two teams from the peninsula in the league, Monterey and the Presidio. A number of Carmel residents have turned out for the Monterey squad coached by Hal Youngman of the Monterey high school. Other teams in the league will be from Hollister, Watsonville and Salinas.

Monterey team does not lack much in man power and enthusiasm. Judging from the spirit shown at practice held at the ball park Tuesday and Thursday nights, the amateur foootball for townsmen will become very popular.

Led by Louis Davidson, Monterey High School graduate, and a young man who was going places at the University of San Francisco, who made Stanford and Santa Clara breathe easier by not going back to U. S. F., the Monterey squad line-up is: Louis Goldstine, Elmer Grant, H. Foster, G. Richetts, A. Bergquist, G. MacIntyre, D. Smith, Artie Gates, H. Tollett, J. Swaine; from Carmel: Milton Roach, Buck Henneken, Middy Tobiason, L. Hitchcock, L. Overhulse, and Ranald Cockburn.

Mexican National Holiday Celebrated In Carmel By Informal Gathering

As a friendly observance of the Mexican national holiday,, Sept. 16—though any other excuse for a fiesta would have done as well—a group of people interested in preserving the atmosphere of the old Hispanic west gathered Saturday evening at Mi Encanto, the Carmel residence of Mrs. Sylvia Meeter Jordan. This is the group which has sprung up around the Wednesday evening sessions at the Aztec shop, under the guidance of Paul D. R. Ruthling, to hear Spanish and Mexican music and informal talks by Mr. Ruthling, who s an enthusiast and an authority on things Mexican and Spanish-American. To the music of an interesting collection of recorded dance and folk music, some of the simpler dance forms were tried out, and in the exuberance of the occacsion some brand new folk dance forms were invented.

The informality and gaiety which attended the affair were in the true fiesta spirit; a group of people playing together and keeping alive the casual play spirit which did so much to give color and character to California life in the Spanish and Mexican periods. Mrs. Jordan, the hostess, lives eight or nine months of the year in Sinaloa, where her husband is a sugar-planter. She has brought a bit of her southern home with her to Carmel, in its general character. The large living room, ideally proportioned for fiesta, is simply furnished with hand-made Mexican pieces, with characteristic wallhangings, painted in Mexican motifs on unbleached coarse cloth. Mme. Jeanne Pirenne had charge of additional decoration, making crepe-paper rosettes for the light fixtures in the Mexican national colors. Another assisting with the party was Dudley Carter, the wood sculptor, who erected road signs directing the guests to the Carmel Woods home and beacon lights consisting of candles inside paper bags, which were weighted and made fire-proof by covering the bottoms of the bags with sand. While this was not a "costume" party, many of the guests added appropriate details to their dress.

This group, entirely spontaneous and informal, can be enlarged to include others who are interested in Mexican and Spanish "atmosphere." It is hoped to learn a few of the simpler folk-dances, and to add to general information of Spanish-American customs, ancient and modern. Wednesday evening at the Aztec shop Mr. Ruthling talked on Mexican climates, life zones and forms typifying them. As the shop is small it is necessary to register in advance, and when the room is comfortably full, the door is locked to late-comers. If the gatherings continue to increase in popularity, it will be necessary to seek larger quarters.

Attending the Saturday night party were R. Chauvet, E. Harte, C. Bertram, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Sand, Ann Norwood, Eva W. Peck, Frances Lombard, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Carter, Mavis Carter, Grace Ten Eyck, Arlie Ward, Paul Ruthling, Sylvia Meeter Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Ross C. Miller, Bertha Bowen, Henry Dickinson, Mrs. Alice Wilson, Mary Wilson, Mme. Jeanne Pirenne and Mabel Hoffman.

EFFICIENT FIRE FIGHTING

If there is one thing men have grown to feel they can trust these days when everyone seems to be trying to fool everyone else, it is the fire department. The smell of smoke in his basement, the sight of sparks from his chimney sends the average man scurrying to send in an alarm, confident that everything which can be done, will be done. But will it?

The odds are ten to one it will not. Even if he is fortunate enough to live in Carmel which is blessed with courageous and able fire fighters, the odds are still ten to one his home or business will not be protected as well as it might be.

Carmel has good fire-fighting equipment, but it is sadly in need of better ladders. With many of the buildings in town not conforming to strict building regulations, our firemen would have a hard time rescuing fire victims from second stories.

National Fire Prevention Week has been set for October 6 to 12. This would be a good time for Carmel's city council to begin work on a building ordinance which would help to prevent fires.

At the same time authorization should be given to provide the firemen with the necessary length ladders to help preserve life. Let's have a new fire house, as well, and at least one paid fireman to be on the job at night.

THE RED CROSS MOVES IN

It sounds like war, like major catastrophe of flood or hurricane or famine when the Red Cross moves in. And anyone will tell you no such emergency exists in this peaceful, mildly sunny state today. Yet, the Red Cross is moving in on California.

Coincident with the announcement by the Carmel unit of the Red Cross in The Pine Cone last week that its annual roll call will start on Armistice Day, comes word from Pacific Coast headquarters that first aid stations are to be established along the highways to care for auto accident victims.

Highways 101 and 99, running from tip to toe of the state, are the first objective. Soon the little stations, each with two attendants, medical supplies and knowledge of first aid, will dot these highways at frequent intervals. In front of each will stand a white signboard with the familiar cross of red upon it.

Sufferers whom the Red Cross will succor in this campaign of mercy are victims of something worse than war or flood or famine—they are victims of a permanent emergency, a perpetual catastrophe that continues its slaughter and maiming day in and day out. If there is anything surprising about this new undertaking, it is that no one accomplished it sooner. That it is definitely coming is as great a cause for thankfulness as the arrival of the Red Cross in areas stricken by the recent Florida hurricane.

In one brief week-end—the Labor Day holiday—California's highway death toll was 26, highest in the nation. Approximately every two hours a life was snuffed out. Every few minutes someone was injured.

This is perpetual catastrophe. Recognized now as such, it will be handled as any other catastrophe—by the Red Cross. But though it is recognition, there is none of the resignation to fate, the hopelessness to get at the primary cause of death, which accompanies a violent flood, or earthquake. Auto accidents can and must be checked.

We are thankful that the Red Cross is here. We shall be even more thankful when the first aid stations have to close their doors for lack of business.

TOR HOUSE

(Carmel, July 31, 1935)

Now that I have seen Tor House,
And stood among the sea-gnawed granite under the wind's throat,
Gazing against the roll of the western rim,
I know that I can turn back to my inland town
And find the flame of this blunt headland
Burning beneath the dark beat of my blood.

For I have stood where he has stood
And seen the same gaunt gulls
And all the tide come pitching in from Lobos Point
To shatter on this coast.
In going I shall bear the feel of his harsh stone,
The sight of sea-wet wings,
And need no souvenir to rub my memory clean.
There is no keener touchstone I can take
Than my one glimpse of Falcon Tower toothing the Carmel sky.

—Bill Everson.

AS FEARS DO

He knew the fear was lodged in his throat
Like a herring-bone he could not free
And yet, at a whimsical anecdote,
It vanished with laughter's melody.

—Anne Phillips Hattan.

Here's Looking at You

By LOIS COLLINS PALMER

UNLESS you have lived at the coast day in and day out, and year in and year out, you would not believe in the possibility of such heavenly weather as Carmel enjoyed last Saturday, Sunday and Monday;—just after the summer people had gone. The crafty few who are having September vacations are reaping an extra dividend. But are we satisfied? No! People complained about the heat, regardless of the fact that under a tree or on shady side of a bulding you would need a sweater n a few moments. Such people should be whisked away to the desert, where, like an ant on a hot griddle, there is surcease nowhere.

You have to be aware of life's prevalent tragic quality to be dynamically happy, or to appreciate happiness. It is contrast that gives life its color. Sitting on the rocks in the sun at Point Lobos, with the white spray flying at my feet, soaking the intense blue of sky and sea into my very blood, I am aware again of this old truth.

The feeling of ecstatic well-being—called "euphoria" by the psychologists—that flows over you at such moments, is, so far as I know, the most intense form of happiness. Trying for it is no good—it is more a matter of opening the portals. In between the high points you learn acceptance, to make the most of what comes and not to be too rudely jarred by petty annoyances. Real happiness is cheap, and it is a lonely experience.

I suppose the fishermen feel as I do; their sensations may even be widened by the messy occupation of threading abalone guts on the barbs, hurling the line out into the boiling waves. They stand patiently, waiting for the occasional strike. Fun for them, it would bore me; my unapologetic laziness, basking immobile in the sun, must look dull to them. The distant conversation of the sea-lions, punctuating the hollow thunder of waves in rocky caverns, has a mocking sound. They are so much more efficient than the best land fishermen.

Near my rocky couch is a fascinating pool. The water is pale green and crystal clear. The conglomerate rock basin is patterned with tiny univalves, emphasized by beautiful deep-purple creatures, half-plant, half-animal—they may be sea-porcupines, at least their spines are stiff and prickly. Tiny crabs sulk in the crevasses, hissing at the intruder. This pool has a perfect arrangement for purification; the larger waves slap over its brim on the seaward side, and the overflow runs through a rocky channel back to the sea. The occasional very large wave crashes completely over it, turning the clear pool to milky white. In the center the pool is deep enough for swimming; three strokes carry you across.

WHEN IS LAW "FUNDAMENTAL?"

On Constitution Day we reread the Constitution—it is a good idea to read both the Constitution and the Scripture occasionally, so that we can know what we are living by. We trust a great many other people also read the Constitution; the Chronicle made a doublepage spread of it in the Sunday World Topics section. As always, we were struck by the essential simplicity of this great document; almost all parts of it are perfectly clear and free from obscure legalisms.

But as for "tampering with fundamental law"—my hat, we have been tampering with our fundamental law ever since it was established. Look at the amendments. What would Washington and the other Constitutional fathers have thought of 13, which freed the slaves, of 15, which gave equal rights to the Negroes, of 16, which established the income tax, of 17, which decreed that senators should be elected by the direct vote of the people? It was the express intention of the writers of the Constitution that senators should be elected by the state legislatures and that the election of the president and vice-president should be thrown into the lower house of Congress. "Tampering with fundamental law" with a vengeance, but this had not become a political catchword in 1913. We have carried democracy further than the fathers of our country ever anticipated.

And Article 19, giving women the vote; what would our revolutionary forefathers have thought of that radical idea? To say nothing of abolishing the hallowed lame-duck session of Congress, making the new term of the President and Vice President start in January instead of on the traditional Fourth of March. A decent respect for the traditions of our ancestors should have directed us to stick to the old dates despite the fact that the reason for them was gone. Men traveling on horseback from the hinterlands, in the face of blizzards and spring freshets, could not hope to reach the national capital before March; now that we have partially conquered climate and transportation, we should still begin the legislative session in March, for no better reason than that it was the way our grandfathers did it.

When changing a simple village ordinance is assailed on the grounds that it represents the same sort of "tampering with fundamental law" as that which now, for some unknown reason "threatens" the Constitution, the time comes to use a little common sense. The Constitution has become a better and more workable, representative document by the changes it has undergone, and if further changes are needed, to fit it to the circumstances of modern life, then let us recognize that we are only following a well-blazed trail.

SHOTS AT RANDOM

A lady from Los Angeles bought a Pine Cone to read the account of two fires in one night. She was within one block of the second fire, but did not get out of bed because she thought it was "only a police car siren." In Los Angeles people do not bother to look up the street when a siren sounds, because one sounds every few minutes. But Los Angeles drivers automatically pull over to the curb, and stay there, when they hear a siren.

Dickens Drama Now at Filmarte

Carmel's Filmarte Theatre, true to its promise to bring some new thrills in motion picture entertainment, shows today and tomorrow what is said to be one of the best pictures of the year, "The Mystery of Edwin Drood," based on the famous unfinished tale of Charles Dickens.

The opening Tuesday night was a thrill for the hundreds who saw "Chu Chin Chow."

What happened to Edwin Drood in the famous mystery story which Charles Dickens had only half completed when death took him in 1870? The probable ending of this thrilling mystery tale has caused more argument that any other story of the past 100 years. More than 120 prominent authors and playwrights are known to have tried to finish the story and 193 solutions of the mystery have appeared in printed form. The discussion became so widespread in England at one time, back in 1914, that a mock trial was held to try to determine who killed young Drood.

The bill for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday will be "One More River," adapted from Galsworthy's famous novel of the same name.

Next Wednesday and Thursday will usher in the beautiful Irish film, "Man of Aran," eagerly awaited by peninsula artists. Directed by Flaherty of "Nanook of the North" fame, Irish peasants and fisher folk are the actors in this film of compelling beauty.

Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous are at the Denny ranch in Siskiyou county this week.

BUTTERFLY EXHIBIT

The regular once-a-month exhibit of California butterflies goes on display at Pacific Grove museum today, tomorrow and Sunday. According to the curator, Mrs. Lloyd, this is the last time this comprehensive collection will be shown until the Christmas holidays.

World Traveler Homeward Bound

Somewhere out in the Pacific ocean off the California coast today is Albert Van Houtte who will have completed a summer trip around the globe when he lands in San Francisco next Tuesday. His last letter was from New York, where the ship on which he is assistant purser was to go into dry dock for repairs after being sideswiped by the hurricane which devastated Florida.

"We were having a grand fiesta in the dining salon, three days out of New York when it struck us head-on," writes Dr. Van Houtte. "For 14 hours our big liner battled with boiling waters of the Atlantic. The es scurried over the deck.

Before a side-trip to Boston to attend a convention—"like Shriners on the loose"—of 80 steamship agents, Dr. Van Houtte saw some of the New York shows.

"I had seen 'Tobacco Road' with Hull in the lead in San Francisco. In New York I saw the production with Barton in the lead. It was much more crude, leaving practically nothing to the imagination. I found "The Great Waltz" one huge pageant of feminity, color and beautiful music. I can't see how they could ever make a road-show out of it—just too huge. 'The Old Maid' and 'The Children's Hour' are very sweet plays of the 'Little Women' type. And they fill houses.

"New York City strikes one as very artificial after touring the world. There is such an atmosphere of simplicity and bucolic serenity in China, the Malay Peninsula, India, Japan, the Hawaiian Islands, Egypt—(with the exception of Ethiopia!) Italy and France. After passing through all those foreign ports that take life so easy and with that peculiar dolce far niente spirit, and then to strike New York, the contrast is tremendous, like a blast out of a furnace. And then the mad rush, in contrast to the pensive perambulation of the foreign peoples, and oh that advertising nightmare that assailts the bewildered eyes like a photographer's flashlight, and the constant noise, Noise, NOISE that leaves its echo even in the dead of sleep.

"When we arrive in San Francisco on Sept. 24 we will have made a cruise of 26,500 miles around the world, visiting 21 ports in 15 different countries. Our route home is via Havana and the Panama canal, up the western coast of Central America and Mexico and then Los Angeles and San Francisco."

LA COLLECTA MEETS

La Collecta Club met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Melvin C. Dorsett, who entertained the group with selections on the accordian. Mrs. William Chappell read a story from the collection entitled "Aunt Jane of Kentucky" by Eliza Calvert Hall, and violin-piano selections were played by Mrs. Vive Harber and Mrs. Andrew Sessink. The refreshments and social hour which followed the program honored the birthday of Mrs. Inez Warren. The next meeting, in two weeks, will be at the home of Mrs. Z. Gansell.

THERE is not one solitary moment of your time taken to keep fires going when you have gas heating in your home. A turn of a key or a touch of your finger on a thermostat and you command clean, constant, lively heat, to brighten cold gray days hour after hour without further attention.

More than that, too, your wall paper, rugs, woodwork and furnishings stay fresh and new-looking longer. That means less constant cleaning and dusting because there is no furnace or stove dirt and dust to clean up at any time in a gas heated home.

Perhaps you know all this but you have guessed gas heating costs too much. Don't guess. Come in and get the facts—all the facts about the economy of gas heating. Then you will decide you can afford to heat your home this modern way. And after you have used gas heating you'll find that gas heating is your pocketbook's best friend. Come in and let us show you how little money pays for the equipment you need on our easy purchase plan.

Myra Kinch and Dancers Coming

The latter September and October calendar for the Denny-Watrous Gallery lists varied and excellent attractions. It runs as follows:

Sept. 28, Saturday matinee and evening, Dan Crowley in the Great Alaskan Reindeer Trek. Thrilling description of the five-year trek by the intrepid explorer and flyer, Dan Crowley, who had the last two years of the expedition in charge. With moving pictures and slides, Dan Crowley takes his audience with him, by plane and by sled, over the entire hazardous, famine-stricken, blizzard-driven trek, thousands of reindeer in the lead, weary, starving, dogs, indomitable, clear-eyed men, who never turn back but inevitably reach the goal.

Oct. 5, Saturday night, Steen Skonhoff, baritone, in a song recital. Ernst Bacon at the piano.

Oct. 11, 12, Friday, Saturday, at 8:30, Myra Kinch, from the Max Reinhardt Theatre, Berlin, and her dance group, will present two dance concerts in the Denny-Watrous Gallery. Myra Kinch brings with her Foy Badger, a nationally recognized dancer of repute; Manuel Galea, composer-pianst, who accompanies all the dances; and a group of four specially trained young girls.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wrightson have returned to Fresno after spending a few days in their Carmel home.

Fire Fighting Methods Shown

As one of the series of educational meetings for the four peninsula fire departments, Chief Tom Fisher and Jack Eaton of the Carmel Highlands volunteer department gave a demonstration of ventilation at a recent meeting in Carmel. A practical five-room house, complete to the last detail with doors and windows that open and close, all in miniature, had been made by Eaton to use in the demonstration. Lifting off the roof, he pumped the tiny dwelling full of ammonium sulphide fumes with a bee-smoker, then opened the front door and showed what happens.

By the older fire-fighting technique, firemen were taught to crawl on hands and knees into a smoke-filled room, because wood smoke is lighter than air and air close to the floor was purest. But electrical refrigeration and other changes in modern living have brought new elements into the situation. Heavy gases such as those used in refrigerating plants hug the floor; the ammonium sulphide used in Eaton's demonstration crawled out the door of the little house and poured like water over the edge of the table. Crawling into such a smoke as that would be a mistake a rookie fireman could make only once.

Plan Social Affairs for Local Playwright

A number of social affairs are being planned incidental to the premiere of Mrs. Martin Jonas Peterson's latest play, "Modern Daze," opening on Friday night, Sept. 27, at the new Filmarte Theatre (Carmel Playhouse).

Prior to making her home in Carmel, Mrs. Peterson was never a member of any little theater group, nor has she identified herself with any here. She thinks it is hard enough work to be a playwright, with the added distractions of managing a home, without taking up any other interests. She is, however, producing and directing "Modern Daze" with assistants.

A large number of reservations have already been made for the opening night, which bids fair to be a gala occasion.

Mrs. Sidney A. Trevvett and her brother, Walter Egan, are to leave for the east today, traveling together as far as Chicago, where Mr. Egan will stop while Mrs. Trevvett proceeds to Washington, D. C.

Sherman McFedries and Mildred Hartsuck stopped over Tuesday night with the Ranald Cockburns on their way to Southern California.

"Doc" and Mrs. D. L. Staniford left Sunday to drive south for a week's vacation. They will see the fair at San Diego and go over the border into Mexico.
